❖ A MESSAGE FROM THE PASTOR

Hearts on the Move

Change is a constant in our lives. We all pass through important moments as we journey from one stage of life to another. Some changes are visible and obvious; others unfold quietly, often without our noticing. It is said, for example, that children can recognize two languages at just six months of age—long before they are able to speak. A great deal is happening in the minds of infants!

Parents will tell you that half a year is a long time in a child's life. Children themselves know that by the end of a school year they are quite different from who they were back in September. Adolescence brings even more change and challenges. Young people are searching for a sense of identity and for ways of relating that give them stability. Having grounded adults with secure identities around them provides nourishment at this crucial time.

Adulthood brings with it the capacity to accept responsibility for others. This is a fundamental building block of a meaningful life and, in our faith, one of the primary ways we express Christian love. For young adults especially, it can be wise to seek responsibility not only in work but also in life. Doing so fosters connection, provides experience, and helps develop the maturity needed both to navigate life well and to grow into a deep spiritual life.

As we age, further transitions emerge. Children move out. Jobs change. Loved ones become frail or die. Families relocate. Our own physical, emotional, or even intellectual limits begin to reveal themselves. Long-unattended emotional matters may bubble to the surface. Especially for those who have not faced major challenges before, these changes can throw us for a loop. The first step is simply to pay attention and to give ourselves the time and space needed to absorb what is happening.

All of these changes invite not only the possibility of a deeper conversion to Christ, but also a more profound discernment of how we are called to live the Gospel in each phase of our lives.

When I was a young priest—energetic but inexperienced—I regularly visited a nursing home resident who was bedridden and mostly non-verbal. Over time, I learned to spend the first few minutes simply smiling, and I was always greeted with a beautiful smile in return. When it came time for Communion, this person would suddenly be able to say some of the responses. It struck me deeply that this physically weak person was, in fact, much stronger than I was—and that they were bringing Christ to me as much as I was bringing Christ to them. This experience revealed to me how deeply meaningful our lives are meant to be. Now, as I begin to experience some of the effects of aging myself, the memory of this person remains a true gift.

During Ordinary Time, we journey with Jesus through His public ministry—proclaiming the Gospel and forming His disciples. As we move through the Scriptures, let us bring the important realities of our own lives to prayer and allow the divine Word to speak to us.

May the peace of Christ be with us all, now and always!

Fr. Bob
